

Titles

Suppose your friend told you that he just read a really good book from the library. He told you about the book and now you want to read it too. How would you find the book in the library? To begin, you need to know the name of the book. The name of a book is called the title.

1. Titles are usually written in large print.
2. The first word of a title is usually capitalized. Important words in the title are also capitalized. Small words such as "the," "and," "is," and "of" are usually not capitalized unless they are the first word of the title.

Look at the book cover on the right. Where is the title? What word is not capitalized in this title? Why?

3. Titles can be found on the cover of a book or on the title page. The title page is usually the first page of writing that you come to when you open the book. It lists the title and the name of the person that wrote the book.
4. Also on the cover or title page, you will find the name of the person who wrote the book. The person who wrote the book is called the author. Who is the author of the book in the picture at the right?
5. If the book has pictures that are drawn, these pictures are called illustrations. The person who drew the pictures is called the illustrator. The name of the illustrator might be found on the cover page or title page also.
